

“The Artful Life”

A painting and culinary workshop in the hills of Tuscany with
Doug Turman and Mary Lee Larison

Fall of 2020 TBA

Blessed with beauty and an unparalleled artistic legacy, Tuscany is a region that fully lives up to its reputation. Stupendous art, soul-aching countryside, excellent wine and delicious cuisine is what this region, where the Renaissance rippled out across Europe, is all about.

Join Doug Turman and Mary Lee Larison for a creative and relaxing week of watercolor painting and culinary adventure. In this workshop you will explore multiple ways of creative expression. The instructors will share their knowledge and love of Italy and their skills in watercolor painting and cooking.

The views from our accommodation in the Tuscan hills, an elegant 18th century country residence, sweeps over castles, tiny villages and farmhouses, immersed in the warm golden light Tuscany is famous for. Inspiration is everywhere! Several day trips will take us to beautiful locations in well know cities as well as lesser known gems full of Tuscan history and culture.

The Artful Life Workshop seeks to demonstrate that all of your experiences influence you, and what better influence than a week in Tuscany? You'll find that the experiences during your time painting, cooking and touring - discovery, over coming fears, learning, risk taking, freedom - can be expressed in other aspects of your life.

About the presenters:

Doug Turman is an accomplished painter of watercolor, oil, and acrylic. He has exhibited in galleries and museums, and has works on all seven continents. Doug has taught at the University level and as a workshop instructor. His philosophy of teaching seeks to accommodate students of all abilities, helping them find their individual creative strengths and deeper levels of expression through observation and enjoyment of the art of painting.

Mary Lee Larison is a passionate cook and culinary explorer, having worked in professional kitchens and as an avid “student” of master chefs in the US and Italy. To participate in the “culture of the kitchen” is at the core of her culinary philosophy. Her teaching style brings enthusiasm and a desire to share her experience with others.

For over 16 years Doug and Mary Lee ran a successful contemporary art gallery in Helena, Montana. Each year they travel to different parts of Italy, enhancing their appreciation of Italian culture and cuisine. Their passion is to share their love of Italy with friends and students alike and to help others create an Artful Life.

Watercolor

All abilities are welcome and encouraged to attend. Watercolor painting is basically very simple - paint, water & paper. Easy to start, difficult to master. The challenge is part of the enjoyment. You will do fine, especially if you are a total beginner.

For more advanced painters, your issues are almost 80% psychological in my experience. “I want to loosen up” is a common goal. This usually requires looking at some work habits that may over time have become more limiting than productive. The length of the workshop will allow enough time to give these issues the personal attention they require.

Cooking

Whether you prefer a “hands on” experience in the kitchen or would rather observe, you will always be welcome in the kitchen! With the help of Mary Lee, and a few of her Italian cooking friends, we will create delicious meals to share. Locally sourced ingredients paired with a variety of Tuscany’s delicious wines will be a highlight at each meal.

Several day trips have been arranged to explore the natural beauty of Tuscany, its rich history and unforgettable landscape. We will travel to artisan cheese and wine makers, spend a day in Sienna (with a private tour of the famous Cathedral), San Gimignano, Certaldo (a medieval village near our villa), and visit an Italian country home to paint on the terrace over looking vineyards and olive groves.

Our hope is that you will come away rejuvenated, with a joyful sense of the pleasures of creativity and good company.
